MORNING MEETING

Interactive Binder

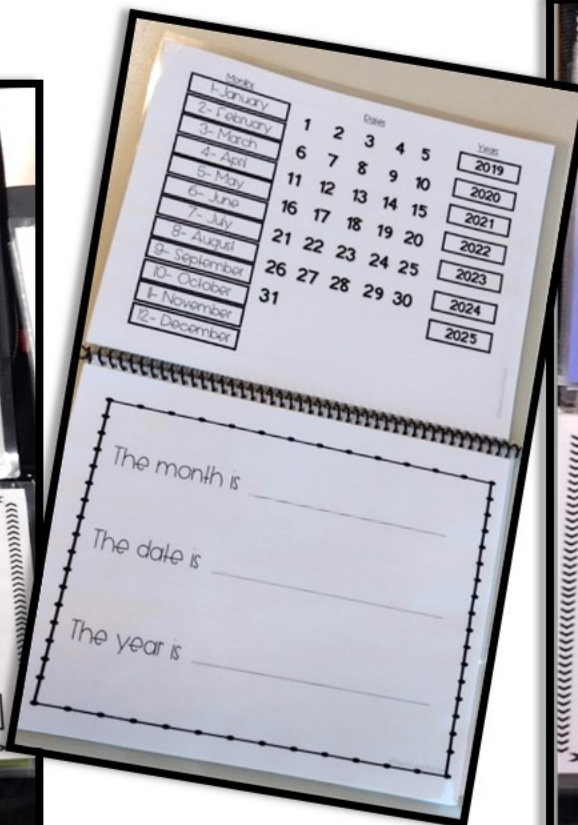

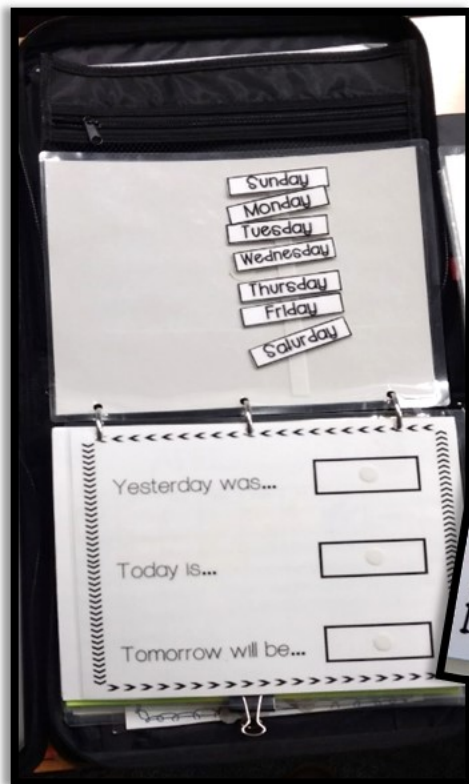

4 levels of binders for students to use!

CREATED BY: TEACH LOVE AUTISM

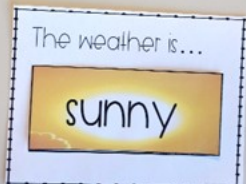

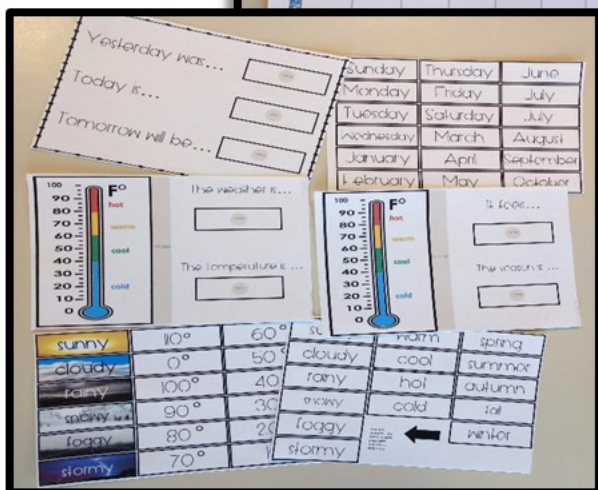

HOW IT ALL WORKS:

The purpose of this binder is to have interactive, differentiated, and adaptive materials available for all students in your classroom so they can participate in your morning meeting or calendar routine.

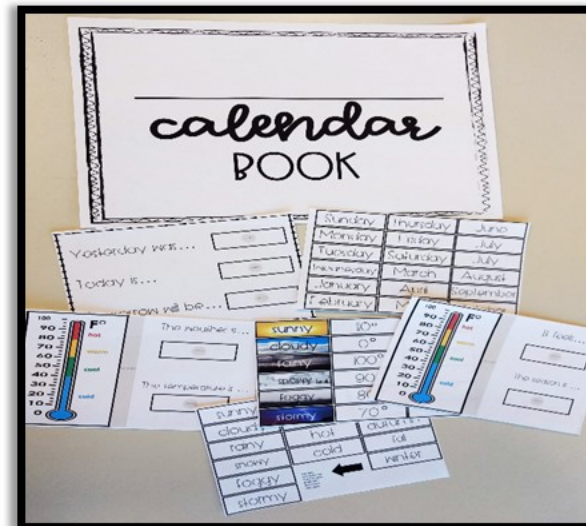

Instead of expecting your students to sit and watch you manipulate the board, let them be a part of the action and work inside their own binder that follows along with what you are doing at THEIR LEVEL!

PREPPING THE MATERIALS:

1. Determine what pages and level your students need. Don't forget the covers!
2. Write down the page numbers you want to print.
3. Print the pages and pieces you need.
4. Determine how you will store materials (I suggest a binder or binding the materials to make a book).
5. Laminate and/or use fasteners to make materials last longer!
6. Put pages in the order you would like them while keeping in mind that there are pages meant for the top of the book (storage) and bottom (interactive boards).
7. Assemble the books.

QUICK TIPS:

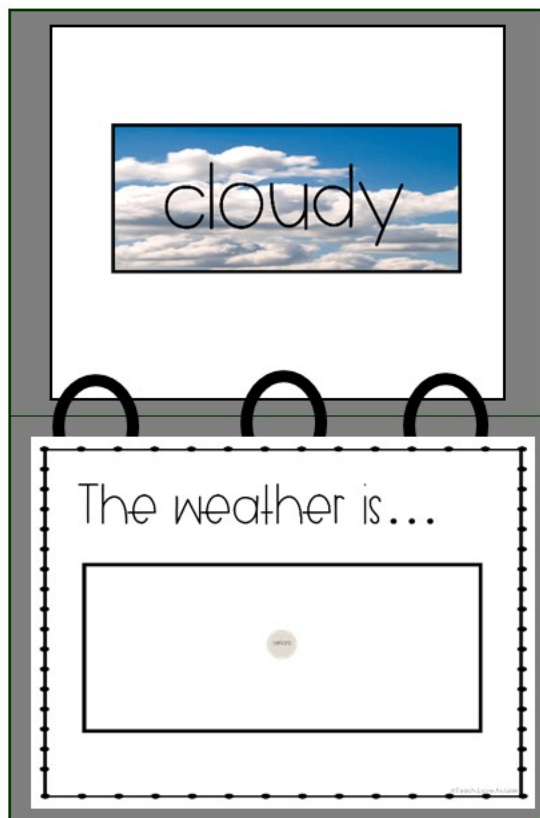

PREP Idea: Use a binder that zips all the way around to help pieces staying contained!

STORAGE TIP: Store extra pieces in large pencil pouches to keep safe to change out easily.

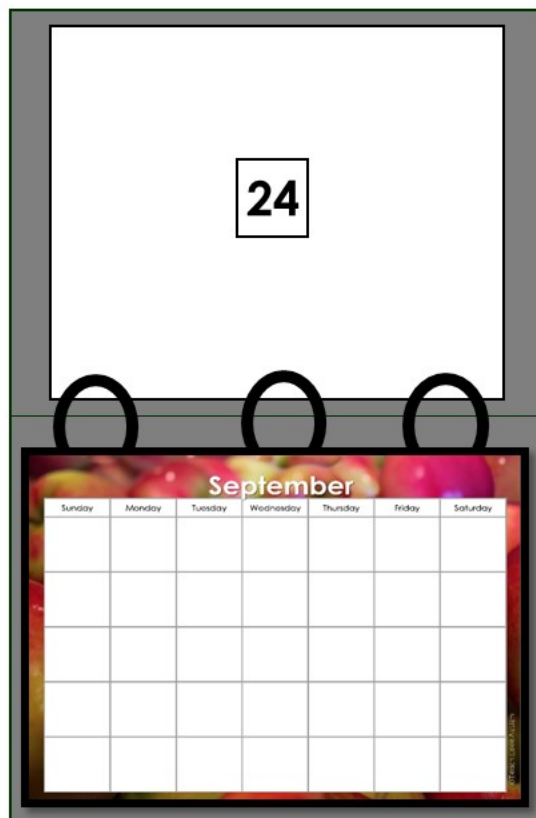

LAMINATION TIP: Save lamination and store boards in sheet protectors! Then you can switch out sheets as student progress through the levels!

Level 1 Materials (Errorless)

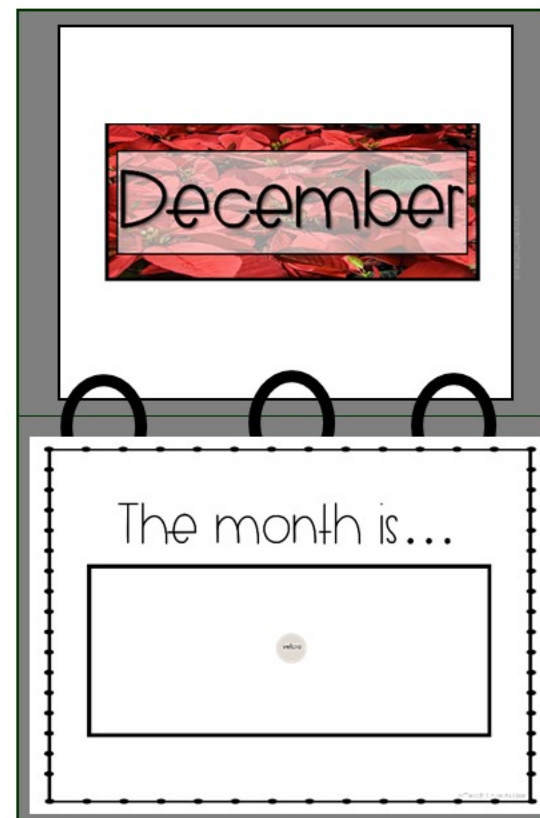

Only the correct answer is available for students. The other pieces are stored in the back of the binder or in pencil pouches hidden.

A card with a photograph of a cloudy sky and the word "cloudy" written in a simple font. Below the card is a binder ring. The card is placed on top of a worksheet that says "The weather is..." followed by a large empty rectangular box for a student to write or draw.

A card with the number "24" in a small square. Below the card is a binder ring. The card is placed on top of a worksheet that shows a calendar for the month of "September" with days of the week labeled from Sunday to Saturday.

A card with a photograph of red autumn leaves and the word "December" written in a simple font. Below the card is a binder ring. The card is placed on top of a worksheet that says "The month is..." followed by a large empty rectangular box for a student to write or draw.

VELCROSAVING TIP! For calendars, use a sleeve protector and put the Velcro on the top of it and slide the monthly pieces out as you change!
