Photography 9 – 12 ~ 1000's of pictures are taken each day, but how do you make your image stand out and tell your perspective of what you just encountered? Do you ever wonder how photographers in National Geographic are able to make you think or feel differently just another looking at one image? This course is designed to give students a working knowledge of how the principles and elements of art and design are used within photography to tell a story. Photo-shoots will be assigned that challenge students to think about what they see in their environment and in turn, to create a dialogue with the viewer with their work. Understanding of a digital SLR camera will be reviewed along with skills needed to edit (Adobe Creative Suite), create Time-lapse videos, sequences and more. (This is a technical course that requires a focused and mature student.) (NOTE: A personal camera is not required for this course, cameras can be borrowed from the school.)
