Fresh Roots @ DT:

Fresh Roots is a schoolyard farming and food education initiative. It transforms part of the school grounds into a working farm where students and community members can learn about growing food, sustainability, and healthy eating (you may have noticed the large garden in front of our school and the greenhouse in our courtyard). If you are interested in supporting our Fresh Roots program, then consider donating to the Roots' Giving Garden campaign that launched last week. Every gift, no matter the size, helps plant the seeds for another year of youth programs, farm-grown food, and community connection. The link below takes you to the Fresh Roots donation page:
